That Person who is awake in those that sleep, shaping desire after desire, that, indeed is pure.

That is Brahman, that, indeed, is called the immortal. In it, all the worlds rest and no one ever goes beyond it.

This, verily, is that, kamam kamam: desire after desire, really objects of desire.

Even dream objects like objects of waking consciousness are due to the Supreme Person. Even dream consciousness is proof of the existence of the self. No one ever goes beyond it: of Eckhart: 'On reaching God all progress ends.'

Festive Season & CA Life: Celebrating Beyond the Deadlines

Practising Chartered Accountant

M: 8059537003

Email: caayushreekhanna@gmail.com

The festive season is traditionally a time for celebrations, family gatherings and new beginnings. But for Chartered Accountants, the festive calendar often runs parallel to another calendar—tax deadlines, audits, assessments, GST compliances and client commitments.

For a CA in practice, festivals do not always mean a complete break from work. There are clients waiting for returns to be filed, financial statements to be finalised, tax positions to be reviewed and compliance deadlines to be met. The challenge is to ensure that professional commitments are fulfilled without allowing work to take away the joy of the season.

This is where planning becomes as important as technical knowledge. A well-organised CA can anticipate deadlines, communicate timelines to clients, delegate appropriately and complete critical assignments in advance. Good time management is not merely a productivity skill—it is an essential part of professional practice.

The festive season also reminds us that behind every balance sheet, return and audit report is a person, a family and a business with its own aspirations and challenges. A little patience, empathy and timely communication with clients can make a significant difference, particularly when everyone is trying to balance professional and personal commitments.

For the CA fraternity, festivals can also be an opportunity to reconnect with colleagues and fellow professionals. A greeting, a meeting over tea or simply sharing a moment away from the desk strengthens the professional fraternity that makes our profession richer.

And perhaps the most important reminder for us as professionals is this: our profession is an important part of our identity, but it is not our entire identity. The long hours spent during audit and tax seasons should ultimately contribute to a fulfilling life, not replace it.

So, this festive season, let us continue to uphold the values that define the CA profession—integrity, excellence and responsibility—while also making time for family, friendships and ourselves.

Because even in the busiest season of the year, a CA deserves to celebrate too.

This festive season, may our books remain balanced, our deadlines remain under control, our clients remain happy—and our lives remain equally well balanced.

Upcoming Tax Audits: Time to Get Your Books in Order

As the financial year closes and the tax-compliance season approaches, taxpayers covered under tax audit should start preparing well in advance. Tax audit is not merely a statutory formality—it is an important exercise to ensure that financial records, tax positions and disclosures are accurate and compliant.

For FY 2025-26 (AY 2026-27), tax audits under the Income-tax Act, 1961 continue to be governed by the existing provisions. The tax audit report is required to be furnished by 30 September 2026 for cases where the regular return due date is 31 October 2026. The applicable forms continue to be Form 3CA/3CD or Form 3CB/3CD, as the case may be. (Income Tax Department)

The basic threshold for tax audit remains ₹1 crore of turnover/gross receipts for business, increased to ₹10 crore where cash receipts and cash payments do not exceed 5%, and ₹50 lakh of gross receipts for professionals, subject to the applicable provisions and exceptions. (Income Tax Department)

What should taxpayers prepare?

Businesses and professionals should not wait until September to approach their Chartered Accountant. Key records such as:

- * Complete books of accounts and bank statements
- * Sales and purchase registers
- * GST returns and reconciliations
- * TDS returns and certificates
- * Details of loans, investments and fixed assets
- * Cash transactions and related supporting documents
- * Details of related-party transactions
- * Confirmation of major balances and outstanding dues

should be reviewed and reconciled beforehand.

Particular attention should also be given to GST turnover versus books, TDS compliance, cash transactions, statutory payments, depreciation, expenses and information appearing in AIS/TIS, as these areas can often reveal discrepancies requiring clarification.

Audit as an opportunity, not just a compliance burden

A well-conducted tax audit can provide much more than a report for filing. It can help a taxpayer identify weaknesses in accounting systems, improve documentation, detect discrepancies and strengthen financial discipline.

With the introduction of the Income-tax Act, 2025, taxpayers will also experience a transition in the compliance framework. However, the audit relating to FY 2025-26 continues under the Income-tax Act, 1961, with the existing Form 3CA/3CB and Form 3CD framework. (Income Tax Department)

As the audit season approaches, the message is simple: do not wait for the deadline—prepare for the audit.

Timely reconciliation, proper documentation and professional review can make the tax-audit process smoother and significantly reduce the possibility of last-minute errors.

A compliant business is not merely one that files its return on time; it is one that maintains accurate records throughout the year.
